WHAT ARE COOKIES?

Cookies are small text files sent from the site to the user's terminal (usually to the browser), where they are stored before being re-transmitted to the site at the next visit by the same user. A cookie cannot retrieve any other data from the user's hard disk nor transmit computer viruses or acquire email addresses. Each cookie is unique to the user's web browser. Some of the functions of cookies can be delegated to other technologies. In this document the term 'cookie' refers to both cookies, properly so-called, and to all similar technologies. Through cookies you can record information related to your preferences, such as browsing pages or downloading files from our site or other similar actions performed by browsing our site.

FIRST- OR THIRD-PARTY COOKIES

Cookies can be first or third party, where "first party" means cookies installed by the owner of the site, while "third party" means cookies installed by parties other than the owner of the site.

NATURE OF COOKIES

Technical cookies: Technical cookies are those used for the sole purpose of "transmitting a communication over an electronic communications network, or as strictly necessary for the provider of an information society service explicitly requested by the subscriber or by the user to provide this service". They are not used for other purposes and are normally installed directly by the owner or operator of the website.

- navigation or session cookies, which guarantee the normal navigation and use of the website; (allowing, for example, to make a purchase or authenticate to access restricted areas); they are in fact necessary for the proper functioning of the site;
- analytical cookies, similar to technical cookies when used directly by the site operator to collect information, in aggregate form, on the number of users and how they visit the site, in order to improve the performance of the site, provided that the IP address is truncated and that the data are not shared with third parties; where the analytics service is provided by a third party, prior consent is required;
- functionality cookies, which allow the user to navigate according to a series of selected criteria; (for example, the language, the products selected for purchase) in order to improve the service provided. For the installation of navigation, functionality and other technical cookies the prior consent of users is not required.

Profiling cookies: Profiling cookies are designed to create profiles related to the user and are used in order to send advertising messages in line with the preferences expressed by the same in the context of surfing the net. The consent of the interested party is required for the use of profiling cookies. According to the guidelines on cookies and other tracking tools of the Italian Data Protection Authority (provision no. 231 of 10 June 2021), the user must be able to authorize or deny consent to the installation of profiling cookies if they are present.

Third-party cookies: in the case of third-party cookies, the site does not have direct control of individual cookies and cannot control them. (it can neither install them directly nor delete them).

You can still manage these cookies through your browser settings (follow the instructions below).
